CNCERT Held the 4th China-ASEAN Network Security Seminar in Dalian

CNCERT organized the 4th China-ASEAN Network Security Seminar in Dalian, China on Aug 8, 2011, with sponsorship from International Cooperation Department of China's Ministry of Industry and Information Technology (MIIT). Delegates from the telecom department of government and CERTs in Cambodia, Lao, Thailand, Viet Nam and Malaysia as well as the ASEAN Secretariat attended this conference. They exchanged development, technology and management experience in the field of network security, preparing to establish bilateral cooperation mechanisms to strengthen trust and assistance for jointly upholding the regional network security.

The delegates of China came from the MIIT Communication Security Bureau, MIIT International Cooperation Department, CNCERT, and some well-known network security corporations, such as Antiy and Topsec. Firstly, the delegates from MIIT delivered an address on behalf of China. Since enhancing technical and management cooperation in network security can benefit regional network security and the mutual interest of both parties, Chinese delegates expected China and ASEAN would continue their cooperation in the field of information and communication. Then CNCERT introduced the development and technical management experience in the field of network security emergency response. Antiy and Topsec presented their relevant technical researches.

The ASEAN delegates also shared their practical experience in the field of network security emergency response and current situation in ASEAN countries. They also expressed the strong wishes of enhancing further cooperation with China, continuing to receive technical training from China and improving the bilateral network security cooperation mechanism to uphold the regional internet environment together.

Both parties reached the consensus that proactive regional cooperation, technology & management exchanges and building mechanism for sharing information in this field of network security will contribute to national and regional network security as well as prosperous internet development.

After that, CNCERT invited the ASEAN delegates to attend the 2011 CNCERT Annual Conference which was held from Aug 8 to 10. With active communication and exchanges with the conference guests, ASEAN delegates all agreed that this Annual Conference provided new perspectives of practical and research significance on network security policies, management and technology.
